

Number of State Prison Admissions by Type per 100,000 Population: Pennsylvania, 1990 to 2011 *

For every 100,000 Pennsylvanians, 140.3 persons were admitted to a state prison. More specifically, 86.1 offenders per 100,000 population were admitted as court commitments, 54.1 offenders per 100,000 population were admitted as parole violators, and less than one offender per 100,000 was admitted as county transfers.

* Source: Pennsylvania Department of Corrections
Rates computed using U.S. Census Bureau population estimates 2011.